

The Phoenix Complex

Introduction

The name says it all.

No one has reported on the way life and death works, what it is, or how to deal with it all.

The reader/student needs to have studied and become adept at all the information in my first four works.

If not, stop reading this, and do so now.

Over thousands of years, man has used his imagination to derive all sorts of explanations for the unknown. You know, those things that no one trusts, and go bump in the night.

Within all of this are representations of the best understandings at the time of incident.

The ideas of evil, monstrous, torturing monsters prevails. Look into the old art and illustrations.

To make matters worse, most belief systems offer waiting rooms that slowly fill up with your worst fears!

That word 'fear' is the basis for every 'evil' I have ever found. Yes I have studied, torture, Black Magic, and all the things that used to go bump in my nights.

In my quest to have a working knowledge, I found myself led to even higher applications of knowledge.

My curiosity would not leave me alone, and yes, as bad or worse than kids wanting something from their parents.

The only other great unknown 'fear', other than 'darkness', is death.

All belief systems have their own take on what is involved, what happens, and too many diverse consequences.

The tragic part of this is not the fact that many simply made things up, but that those who do know outright lied about it!

The title deals with the 'Legend' (look it up) of The Phoenix. The 'fire' is somewhat accurate.

Resurrected people have a 'glow' and a stunning 'white' countenance that is brilliantly full of light and radiance.

When a person is in total darkness, over time, most lose control.

Two reasons for this.

We are some eighty percent (80%) sight oriented. It takes a lot of adjustment to counter that.

Our imaginary visions are from the fear oriented learning as a child.

This work offers, in some detail, the truth about death.

Read and learn...

The Phoenix Complex

This is the most difficult subject I have attempted to write about.

The things not easily understood go to the realm of the totally fearsome unknown.

It is not so much fear of the unknown that is the problem. Rather, it is a lack of capability of 'orientation'. In the dark you can't get an image of a reality that you can attach to.

Due to being sight and image oriented, when deprived of sight and image, everyone loses their physical 'reality anchor'.

Irrespective as to what is real, we consider our orientation 'tied and anchored' to the physical found in our sight and image.

The physical 'things' we perceive to be of 'solid' reference in our orientation to 'reality' are what we have used to offset non-reality.

We even go so far as to give physical attributes to the unreal dreams and movies.

The very idea of some things being real are very easily dismissed. Ghosts? Really?

Yet that artificial movie or the thoughts in a dream are easily accepted?

Sounds like a catch – 22, paradox, and irresistible force meets immovable object.

The only true answer to the chicken and egg question is both.

Stepped in what?

Oh well. Guess what?

We have all stepped right in it, dead center, and the deepest part.

Wonderful.

Another person telling us how far in the toilet we really are.

Go ahead, make my day...

Thing is that no matter how anyone tries to ignore it, dismiss it, or disprove it, it remains.

Permanently stuck to your shoe, like that sharp thing in your clothes, or hard spot in your sock.

Got gremlins in your reality?

I bet you do.

Awrighty then, what kind of gremlins?

The best question found in the movie 'The Matrix', was, “there is something that is not right. You are not sure what it is, but it is there in the back of your mind like a splinter you can't find. Do you want to know what it is?”

Within that frame of mind, I am about to answer the second major question we all seem to have.

This deals with the twilight zone between life and death.

As far as I know, no one has put any of this in print in any way that goes from beginning to end and back again.

The subjects, references, and presentations deal with things both known and unknown.

Reference will be made of the reality difference between myth and legend, fact and fiction, and all the horse hockey lies.

The idea that we can deem lesser known situations to the esoteric graveyard, is a losing proposition. Everyone loses through withholding of knowledge.

The items I am correlating will be made clear, but only if the reader is willing to do some homework and some research.

I will present myth, legend, and application of processes that have been known and used since the beginning. This is before time, light, and any of us existed.

Presentation will offer the best analogy to either that which is real, or those things that have no physical context.

The idea of factual presentation of things beyond fact goes directly to being asked to make this presentation before The Wave.

First, anyone who really wants to know, will take this as a 'partial' understanding.

Second, there is a specific order that causes your mind to discern things your senses can't.

Third, this will not be a 'quicky' of instant gratification.

This is your question and yours alone.

Even though the subject deals with universal concepts and subject matter, the manner of access only happens for the individual involved.

It is best if you do not try to explain this as each individual has different 'triggers' of awareness. That which would be insignificant to you can be critical to another.

Time to read and learn.

Knowledge is tricky at best. Simply, what is true?

In order to correlate, you must have certain abilities and attributes on psychic and spiritual levels.

Discernment is critical to this study.

Intuition is a form of discernment and leads to proficient discernment with practice.

If a person can connect the dots of seemingly unrelated bits of information, you have discernment abilities.

Of the types of energies, 'energimatta' is the most complex and highest form, as it is an interactive form of all energies.

Light, electricity, and magnetics are obvious.

The Creational energy that feels so good when released is the biological energy of orgasm, another.

Spiritual energies manifest as ghosts, psychic phenomena, and near death or out of body experiences.

What will be covered here uses all these.

The idea of body, soul, and spirit is ancient, very much older than most belief systems.

The pre-history of man is passed down through 'oral tradition' and glyphs.

Some of this goes far beyond everything, back to the beginning of the origin.

Just as body and soul go together, so does spirit and creation.

In this case there is a 'unification' of the duality of life and death.

Symbolically, think in terms of the yin/yang signet (seal of authority), when on the whole, both balance perfectly in vortexical equality within the circle (complete, whole) becoming unicular of signature (signature is an assignment of intent, purpose, and meaning).

In this example life is white, and death is black, the circle is silver, and the pendant edge is gold. Silver denotes the Moon, while gold represents the Sun.

Breaking this common symbolic down is a matter of the understanding of the number three (3).

Body without life is dark. When life is added, life is introduced as soul. The summation brings the awareness of spirit, the circle, and three.

In this configuration, there are many designations. You have an always balance of exact equality.

Before continuing, the absolutely critical 'Balance' must be understood.

Balance – 5b: equipoise between contrasting, opposing, or interacting elements.

- to equal or equalize in weight, number, or proportion.
- Harmony and proportion.

The designations are : light and dark; masculine and feminine; good and evil; happy and sad, etc.

The first state of balance only considers the two ends of the teeter-totter or seesaw.

Very few think about the centered balance point of the fulcrum.

Now we have three (3) parts.

Note that it is stated that man is a three part being.

As the body is balanced with soul/life, the condition of 'perfection' allows for the discovery of the spirit.

Three is the first trinary number and number of truth.

The first plane geometric shape is the triangle.

Three denotes divine perfection.

So you have light and dark, and they are presented in a perfect vortex form known as the 'sine wave'. The curvature exactly matches light and distance.

There are three circles in this, see if you can find them.

Light is the opposite of dark and visa versa.

Light is composed of all colors and dark is the absence of light.

The so called 'electromagnetic spectrum' only represents what our technology can detect.

There are several representations of this spectrum.

These differing spectral parts are presented as frequencies.

How often does a thing 'frequent' a place?

In this, it is a 'regular' of 'occurrence', meaning at or within a certain time.

Everyone runs into frequencies, hot and cold, and the fun of sun burns.

So far you have the components of physical reality, the quality of adding the physical to the non-physical, discernment, energy, basic human composition, the number three, balance, and the concept of the Yin/Yang symbol.

Be sure you know what I've written on those things in the list above, if not you most likely will not understand.

There are energy places on you called Chakras. These are designated to function between spiritual energies and your physiology.

When you, and your chakras are in balance, you can experience the capability of your life force energy to transport you out of your body.

This out of body experience, known as astral travel, is no different than a near death experience. No, I don't recommend dying.

What you have entered is complex.

You have exceeded the physical, gathered your life energies, and are now free of most physical limitations.

You have become an energy being.

One must note that there are some limitations. These are for your protection and the protection of others.

Your spirit or higher self, watches over this experimental playground.

In this way you get used to the ideas of being an energy being, how things work, etc.

After drivers ed, or during it, your spiritual higher self will join with you. This only happens when you are ready, and it is sort of like being conscious while being born. In some cases, a person does this from the very beginning, as there are variations.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch...

Your body has gone into deep trance and physical stasis. This means your heart and respiratory rates are so low it will seem you are dead.

Be aware that you can 'snap back' almost instantly. I would consider leaving a note if you might have unexpected visitors. Most come back or wake up when a person tries to wake you up.

When you 'travel', be sure to observe and look all around. This is one of the most beautiful places anywhere. Formations, colors, and configurations that defy description.

Each of us has a residual memory. That means you 'see' yourself as if you were still in physical form. Blow your own mind and look beyond this to the real you. This is just practice. Then again there are many 'forms', some are a light being that looks like you, except you have the same qualities as the descriptions of angels. Could be a sort of semi-fog like look. There are many variations.

Going back to the start of your journey, most do not observe the things that take place.

This may or may not be easy, but it is well worth learning to do.

As you gather yourself for your travel, try seeing the energy pulling towards your center. Look for a white misty fog coming up your legs, maybe on your arms.

See inside yourself by looking for the energy you are bringing together. As it leaves parts of you turn dark, while your center and upper center, brightens.

Always look for the colors, see the energy configurations, the awesome patterns, and those explosive areas where the energies combine.

Look in the direction of your higher self, your spirit. See everything you can see, as much as you can each time.

This uniting of life force and spirit is much more beautiful than any of the artwork I've seen anywhere.

The fun part of this is the repeat of practice, practice, practice. Your own private light show.

At the point where nothing else is added, you have become an adept at seeing the spectrum of energimatta.

Energimatta is the essence of creational energy. It is the foundation of creational forces. Thus it is critical that the student knows it 'experientially'.

From this point on you are no longer confined to the psychic realm.

Drivers ed is over, and you passed.

Now to let you know where you are.

There are 'seven' prime dimensions. Within each are an infinite number of levels. Whenever a being is at this stage of development, they are usually in the third dimension.

Remember your 3 D body is waiting your return.

Most of our galaxy has transitioned to higher dimensions.

Just as the dimensions are in numerical order, so are the transitions.

The idea is for each entity to find their mission in each dimension.

Generally, each entity needs to alter or change within in order to advance to the next level. These requirements are absolute and intended to be made to all beings in their respective dimension.

The most drastic of the transitions is from 3D to 4D.

Simply, each transition causes a specific loss of the physical. Many things change.

Most 3D beings are poorly educated in the things that are non-physical. Material orientation diminishes, and most require an extreme attitude adjustment. Bad emotions, etc. are dealt with.

Many of the actions in 3D are not accepted or tolerated in 4D, let alone the higher level dimensions.

No this is not the all love and light you hear about, but it is an extraordinary improvement.

Everyone will find out more when we transition.

Next!

The planet on which we reside is known as Gaia, or our mother earth, and is a living entity.

She has requested and been granted a power infusion and healing wave.

This will help Gaia tremendously and benefit all living things, including all of us.

Some of what it will do is to make certain ET races run for cover. Think of having a skunk chasing you, but add pepper gas to its spray, and you get the picture.

This wave will help most of mankind ready itself for the coming transition. Higher functionality mentally, emotionally, and physically are a few. Those who serve will benefit most, but everyone gets some of the goodies.

This is a part of what I was requested to share.

Now the last bit of information that will allow everyone to understand.

There is a 'trace' energy that can be followed.

Whenever you travel you leave this trace. This is the so called umbilical attachment cord.

The individual who has united with their higher self is in a complete form, however, as long as your physical self lives, you are not fully complete.

This is never a problem for an adept.

Then there is time, timing, and dates.

Einstein was wrong, time is not relative. Time is a quanta and a measure of distance. Timing is the harmonic effect of time in relation to space fabric.

Dates are both linear and non-linear values of the relationship between given points, disturbances resulting in folding or lessening of fabric values, and the anomaly of distance relationships.

In order to affect time, time's relationship to distance has to be modified.

First the understanding of expansion, contraction, and the negation of the distance/time relationship has to be made.

Two classes of momentum. Velocity is the rate of change of position in distance and 'time'. Speed is the magnitude of velocity. Neither respects direction. Momentum is mass times velocity.

Within these three are considered the limits known as the laws of motion.

The speed/time relationship 'assumes' that all these are products of absolute constants.

In addition, the idea that distance is a solid constant, is another 'assumption'.

To give these things substance, simply think of a scene where you were involved, and get a good sharp picture of it. It doesn't matter what, where, or when.

In analyzing this, your mind took you back in time, and there was no distance involved. You were just 'there'.

You just broke a bunch of the 'laws' of physics.

No you did not 'physically' go there, but what if you could?

I do hope you see my point.

Now read those 'assumed' laws again.

There are very few absolutes or laws or restrictions.

A very important event took place in our recent past.

It deals with a complexity of things that our modern science has yet to 'rediscover' and is unable to detect.

These are influences we are unaware of. There are forces we do not understand.

One of man's greatest faults is our inability to hear the whispers of our forefathers through the mists of time. The ancients are speaking to us.

Hard to miss The Great Pyramid, yet we ignore it. We refuse to study it. We disrespect any idea of the sciences involved in it.

Get the book, 'The Stones Speak', and learn.

Now for the icing on this cake.

When a person dies they lose two and a half ounces of body weight.

Reality states that 'matter' has weight and occupies space. Even the most fluid forms of energy has weight and occupies space.

Does anyone really believe that biological science is nothing more than chemical interactions in fluidities held together by surface tension?

When a person understands that man is not limited to the physical, that person's curiosity starts questioning everything.

Most can attain solid knowledge from information. However, the simple use of a hammer is very different when advancing from the academic to the experiential. Use verses understanding.

In the psychic one learns about being an energy being. In the spiritual the whole of creation is opened up.

I requested that each person see all the things that happen leading up to your psychic/spiritual experience of astral travel.

Now comes the tricky part.

You will need to observe what happens when you return. 'See, feel', and experience everything dealing with this. Even though each individual is different, there are a load of things that you need to know and become familiar with.

Although this in and out is a matter of fact, and sort of 'instinctive', when you observe it to the core, you will find 'guides'.

The first guide is your spirit, as its higher existence holds the general knowledge of how to. Most will have no problems, or need anything more.

Now look to that very important event.

The Aztec/Mayan people came to create a very awesome 'calendar'. Not only is it as accurate or more so than our atomic clock, it has indicators that predict events. We can't match that.

On our Gregorian calendar the date was December 21, 2012 or 12/21/12

(1221 & 2112). Note these number configurations, as they deal directly with interactive gravitational plasmic drives. This is the discharge of the magnetic basis of Seril Discs. Look it up.

Those priests, the Maya, had several means of time keeping. In this case, the date was the end of the Long Count and one Great Cycle.

That date is important as it designates a 'new' time cycle.

This is known as The 'Age' of Grace.

The paradox in all this can be summed up in the word, 'Aloha', hello and good by all in one word.

This is exactly what the 'ending and beginning' in all time frames comes to.

The Yin/Yang symbol is that and more.

'Pros' is an ancient Greek word meaning, 'together with, but, distinctly independent of'.

Many see the individual as a 'fractal' of The Creator and/or Creation.

Sorry but there are no small parts, only whole individuals. Simply, you either are, or are not.

In the famous words of Yoda, 'There is no such thing as try. One either does a thing, or one does not'.

The Creator couldn't half step or nothing would exist.

In terms of 'spiritual' life or existence, the spirit is immortal. This means that the spirit can not die, but rather 'transitions'.

It is this instant transition and the procedure that follows that is confusing.

You will find that you are in a very special place. There are others there to help explain that you are now in The Creator's family room. These people are assigned to help new arrivals deal with their new found condition. Only if needed.

No one will be left in the lurch or on their own in any way. The things you don't understand will be explained. Unless you are a special case, there may be others who have made their first 'transition'. Most will not experience this in the life, death cycle. The 'help' comes with the main transition.

Those who have been active in travel will have the easiest time of this, as it is very similar to their travel experiences.

This is one reason a person needs to become adept in the knowledge in the first four books. It prepares you for this journey.

When you arrive, you are in a spiritual stasis condition where all relativity and interaction is put on hold. This is conditional and yet we all go through The Family Room.

In some cases there is a very short interval between leaving the old and going to the new. Usually there is little or no memory of past lives even though these memories can be regained.

As stated, leaving is very similar to the experiences of travel. The main difference is going to The Family Room and/or the experience of being 'handled' by the assistance crew.

Only after an entity is calm will they be allowed to 'see' this complex and extraordinary amount of traffic. IF allowed to 'see' any of it at all.

The idea is to 'process' new arrivals as quickly as possible. Average time goes from almost instant to only a couple of minutes.

Those who coordinate these activities know when you will arrive, so they are ready well ahead of time. Fore knowledge.

From the beginning, or before, all this was known and was planned for.

Although higher entities can see and know some of the future, only Source knows the bulk of it all.

Source set it all up, at least the good parts. That does not mean our free will choice is not in effect. Chose as you see fit.

Much of most belief systems are lies and fabrications. I do mean almost all. A few tell their limited knowledge, but way too much has been lost.

So we have resurrection in the nine lives of cats, the phoenix, and resurective ascension.

Christ, Krishna, Buddha, and others from all over. All these are different 'belief systems'.

Then there has to be either something different, a common thread, or something outside all belief systems. Do the same and expect different results?

What you have here is very much outside any commonly known system.

It doesn't matter if this is acceptable or not.

Only one thing matters in all this, and that is to get your curiosity aroused to the point beyond asking questions, and start experimenting.

Go ahead, prove me wrong.

You know as well as I do that the only way to 'prove it' is to try it. Dare ya...

That means that you have to take this dare, and experiment!

How does it feel to be a lab rat? Better yet, being your own lab rat?

Most have gone way over the top already, out into the twilight zone, and past reasonable reality. One more step won't hurt.

Don't think so? Try talking to anyone about freedom. Most will shy away, change the subject, and even walk out on you.

Our freedoms on this planet pale when you ask someone if they want to perform the same signs, miracles, and wonders that Christ did.

Mankind has never lived up to where or what we were always supposed to be. Never.

This is your chance to regain that last of the Sacred Knowledge.

Each of us were made to know, to be able to grab that golden ring, and perform as true heirs of what was meant to be.

To truly be free means no longer being subject to the whims of rulers or the lies of deceivers.

Ye shall know The Truth and The Truth shall set you free.
Oh death, where is thy sting?
Take hold of this knowledge as tightly as you can.
Put this in your minds, make this a part of your heart, and be afraid no more.

The idea is to let people know the unknown, and bring openness and light into as many lives as possible.

To make sure that no one ever needs to be in fear ever again.
To comfort sorrows, ease burdens, and share in the joys of youth.
I only ask that you spread love and happiness, where ever you go.
Thank you,
